New President Appointed from Within

Bruce Gordon with Bente and Knud Simonsen, a member of the Board of Governors, in the courtyard on the day of the Commitment to Excellence dedication.

On May 25, 1992 the Board of Governors appointed Bruce Gordon, CGA, MBA, as president of the College and Seminary effective June 1, 1992. In making the announcement to faculty and staff, Board chair, Dr. Gordon Freeland said "We thank God for this successful conclusion to the search for a president and for bringing Bruce to us."

In its continued assessment of the profile for a candidate for president, the Board decided that it could best meet the needs of the College and Seminary by changing Bruce Gordon's appointment from that of acting president to president.

It was apparent over the months of prayer and planning, that a primary focus for a president would be in creating a climate for growth and ensuring financial stability. Both Bruce's background and past year of service make him eminently suited for this task.

Bruce, who is a certified general accountant and has an MBA, brings expertise in finance, development, and long-range strategic planning, both in university and business environments. He previously served as secretary/treasurer at Algoma University, Sault Ste. Marie, ON. He has also taught in Lake Superior State University's MBA program; it is located in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan. Bruce and his wife Denise, and sons, Adam, Aaron and Andrew worship at Richvale Bible Chapel, Richmond Hill, ON.

Bruce's strengths as a team player have earned him the confidence of cabinet, faculty, staff and the Board of Governors. He has a vision to see the College and Seminary continue to build on their strengths by the grace of God.

Campaign Projects Dedicated

On May 9, 1992, in a service of celebration more than 500 guests, staff and faculty gave thanks to God for the new and refurbished facilities, which He provided through the Commitment to Excellence campaign.

The most visible symbol of the campaign's success is the new Seminary, which now has double the space at 22,000 square feet. As Dr. Ian Rennie said at a recent Board meeting, "It's beautiful" is the phrase most commonly used to describe the new facility. A student said, "I can't believe that they are doing this for us."

A number of guests shared the program. MP for Don Valley North, Barbara Greene, brought greetings from Prime Minister Mulroney and the riding. MPP for Willowdale, Charles Harnick spoke, as did Dr. Peter Richardson, professor of Religion, University of Toronto, on behalf of the academic community.

Marilyn Sapsford, president of the Student Council shared the students' heartfelt appreciation for what the guests had made possible. Garfield Mitchell represented the W. Garfield Weston Foundation, and Knud Simonsen, president of Knud Simonsen Industries, Ltd., spoke for the many individual supporters. Dr. Brian Stiller, executive director of the Evangelical Fellowship of Canada, gave the address.

Bruce Gordon acknowledged the important contribution of Dr. McRae, who was president during much of the campaign, to the fund raising. Mr. Gordon Johnson, former chair of the Board of Governors, lead in the prayer of dedication and thanksgiving for the new Seminary facility, for the renovations at the College and for the gifts to the library.

Building Fiscal Strength

With OBC/OTS committed this year to balancing income and expenditures, the '92/'93 budget will be one of the toughest yet. Many institutions are facing difficult fiscal decisions, and OBC/OTS wants to be accountable to our many partners in sharing the situation and the plans to manage it.

While tuition and ancillary income reached their targets this year, the donation income did not and dropped from the average of previous years. This, together with unanticipated expenditures, resulted in a $300,000 deficit. At the same time, however, income to the Commitment to Excellence campaign totalled more than $800,000 (pre-audited figures).

To enable OBC/OTS to become fiscally stronger President Gordon says that the administration is implementing a more organized, business approach to finance. Fiscal control and a new strategy for raising private support are seen as the keys.

Implementing Controls

At a June staff/faculty meeting, President Gordon announced that spending for many areas had been

Administrative Re-structuring

New Faces, New Places

In recent months the Institutional Advancement Department (IA) has been restructured into independent departments: Development, Communications and Enrollment Services.

The Development Department implements strategy to raise private support for OBC/OTS for the operating and capital funds and for special projects. Under the leadership of the Director of Development, Mary Ann Buffam, the department will build donor relationships and continue to upgrade the data base.

Digest

Brethren Gathering
On April 23, 45 men and women from 15 Brethren Assemblies took a Spring Break at OTS. Dr. Nelson Annan, professor of Preaching and Director of Interest Ministries, convened the event. Nelson fills the Chair of Expository Preaching, and one of his mandates is to provide ministry enrichment for workers in the Christian Assemblies.

The speakers were: Mr Paul Fletcher, pastor/teacher, Simcoe Bible Chapel, Simcoe, ON, Dr. Rod Wilson, a teaching elder at Forest Brook Bible Chapel, Pickering, ON, and Dr. Ian Rennie.

New Counselling Courses
Dr. Vincent Poon, an OTS graduate and family physician with advanced degrees in counselling, will teach two courses in '92/'93: Cross-Cultural Counselling (Wednesday evenings in the fall) and Human Sexuality and the Helping Relationship (Wednesday evenings in the spring).

On Monday afternoons in the spring, in a course entitled Violence in Relationships, Helena te Bokkel Watson will guide students in developing a preventative and therapeutic response to violence.

Chancellor's Spring Tour
In April, the Chancellor, Dr. Wm. McRae, and his wife Marilyn completed a whirlwind tour in Atlantic Canada with stops in Ontario and Quebec enroute. They enjoyed visits with alumni, prospective students and at various churches and colleges.

Please Pray
Over the summer please remember Hugh Rendle, public services librarian, who will have a bone marrow transplant in September, in an effort to cure his leukemia.

Correction
Walter De Sousa is the correct spelling of the evangelist's name. We apologize for the error in the last issue of UPDATE.

Spring Harvest Leader to Teach
Clive Calver, the man behind England's Spring Harvest, a popular festival of worship and the arts drawing thousands each year, and general director, Evangelical Alliance of the United Kingdom, will teach January 5-15, at OTS's Intersession. His topic is 21st Century Evangelicals: Lunatic Fringe, Moral Majority or Something Entirely Different — A case study in a changing evangelical culture, drawn from the United Kingdom, 1966-1992.

Seeking Spirituality Today?
Dr. James Houston, professor of Spiritual Theology, Regent College, Vancouver, will give a public address during the Staley Lectures. On Wednesday, November 4, at 7:30 p.m., he will speak in the chapel on Being a Christian in the Post-Modern World.

From November 3-6, he will speak at the 11 a.m. chapels on The Forgotten Trinity: Appropriate Spirituality for the Post-Modern World.

The Power of the Spirit

Lightning split the sky, immediately followed by a large clap of thunder. Close by, I stood with two others under a covered arch which formed the entrance to an institution overlooking grounds leading down to a river.

Two of us were dressed in business suits. The third was a native Canadian, a Mohawk, who held the status of a great chief and medicine man. The Mohawk was dressed in buckskin with his hair tied back. We had just finished three hours of intense negotiations that afternoon on a subject which was very close to the native community, one that involved their beliefs and, thus, required the presence of this great spiritual leader.

Discussions concluded, we looked in silence through the thunderstorm at the property in question.

Suddenly the chief turned to me, pointed a bony index finger adorned by a large wooden ring, and stated, "I detect that within you lies another spirit, a power!"

I was speechless.

Turning to my companion (who had previously told me he did not really believe in much of anything), the chief stated this time, "This man does not have that spirit!"

As Christians we take for granted the indwelling presence and power of the Holy Spirit. Like a thunderbolt matching the weather, the reality hit me at that moment. Here was someone obviously in touch with the other world, confirming Romans 8:11: "And if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead is living in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit, who lives in you."

I do not know your circumstances or what you are facing at this moment in time. But let me encourage you with these words. As one who is redeemed by Christ's blood, a power lies within you set by the Ancient of Days himself, far above anything which people can produce, manipulate or contemplate.

I shared this memory at both graduations, and my prayer for you, for myself and for our grads is that we would draw from this holy presence to strengthen us for our journey so that our ministry and service for the King will be effective and significant.

182 Complete Degrees at College and Seminary

On April 25, 1992, OBC graduates received their degrees in a service at Agincourt Pentecostal Church, Scarborough, ON. Of the 865 graduates, 50 received a Bachelor of Religious Education, 18, a Bachelor of Theology, 16, a Bachelor of Religious Studies and two graduates were awarded a Bachelor of Sacred Music. Nine graduates from Scott Theological College, Machakos, Kenya, were recognized in absentia.

The evening included special music by the OBC choir, senior testimonies by graduates Frank Vander Meulen and Roxanne Booth, and a charge to the graduates presented by the Right Reverend Desmond C. Hunt, now retired, and formerly Suffragan Bishop of Toronto in the Anglican Church of Canada. Approximately 1000 family and friends of the graduates attended the service.

Overflow Crowd at OTS

Bayview Glen Church, Thornhill, ON, was packed to capacity with more than 1200 people on May 9, 1992, for the 14th graduation service of OTS. Eighty-seven graduates were honoured with 51 receiving a Master of Divinity, 33, a Master of Theological Studies, and 3, a Certificate of Biblical Studies. The commencement address was given by Dr. Thomas Oden, professor of Theology, Drew University, Madison, NJ.

Marilyn Draper and Ronnie Teoh gave the two student addresses. As well, Rev. James Beverley, professor of Theology and Ethics, on behalf of faculty and staff, thanked Dr. Ian Rennie for his guidance in the Seminary's development and wished him well on his sabbatical.

The Words I Learned

by Frank Vander Meulen

After four years at Ontario Bible College, what have I learned? I learned about words. I learned some big words. Words like neopythagoreanism, premillenialism, transubstantiation, anthropomorphism, supralapsarianism, procrastination. But I learned that big words don't make me a good Christian.

I also learned some little words. Words like sin, love, sorry, help, as in "Can I help you?" and often "Can you help me?". I learned the word think. Think. I learned how important it is for me as an individual to understand what it is that I believe — not to accept beliefs simply because someone tells me that it is true, but to study the Scriptures to understand what I believe, so that when I come into contact with people who are not Christians, I can explain to them what Christ means to me and what He has done in my life. I learned a lot of little words.

I also learned about the Word, that is Christ, and began to get a stronger understanding of what it means that Christ is my Saviour. I began to slowly realize how futile life is without the Lord. I've seen it evidenced in the workplace, in the lives of the people I work with, and in comparison to that I realized the fullness of the life that I have because Jesus Christ is my Saviour.

When I came to OBC, I was immature. Now I am leaving, a bit more mature, but still with a lot to learn. For this maturity, I need to thank the faculty, who have played a big part in this development. I would like to thank the staff because without them the school would not run. I would like to thank the class of '92, my friends, and my wife, who loves me more than I can ever know. And I want to thank you, the friends of OBC, for your prayers and support financially, for it is because of you that I was able to study. And now that I am leaving the school, I want to be able to serve you.

Adapted from his graduation address. Frank Vander Meulen graduated with a Bachelor of Religious Education.

Celebrating God's Work

by Marilyn Draper

As I look back over my years here, what stands out is not the course work that I've accomplished. Rather, I'm reminded that God has been accomplishing His purposes in me, for me and through me.

When I came to OTS in September of 1989, I had just finished three years of full-time Christian ministry. I was exhausted and discouraged. That first year at OTS was a time of wonderful healing. Over and over and over again in my classes I was reminded that God was concerned about who I am, rather than what I could accomplish for Him. In that year God accomplished a change in the focus of my life, from what I did to who I was becoming.

The second year was one of watching God accomplish things for me. There were a few semesters where Noel, my husband, and I would pop in to see Dr. Rennie a few weeks before classes and say that we just didn't think that we'd be back, but each semester, we'd see him the very first day of classes and announce "we are back." He never seemed surprised. Certainly God has always provided for our needs.

This final year, God has been accomplishing things through me. Being in leadership positions in our church, Noel and I have seen God use our experiences to teach others and that's been a source of encouragement.

For the past three years, a card has been sitting on Noel's dresser and every morning when I get out of bed I read it. The verse is from Isaiah 26:12 and it says this, "Lord, you establish peace for us. All that we have accomplished, you have done for us." In times of stress, and there have been many such times, it's been reassuring to know that God does bring peace, eventually. And looking back over the last three years I am very much aware of how much God has accomplished in us, for us and through us.

Adapted from her graduation address. Marilyn Draper graduated with a Master of Divinity. Marilyn and Noel, who also graduated with an MDiv this year, are celebrating another accomplishment, the birth of their first child, Nathanael, born in early July. Marilyn hopes to begin a doctoral program in New Testament studies and Noel will do an MA at the Centre of Religious Studies at the University of Toronto.

THE SUBTLE POWER OF SPIRITUAL ABUSE

David Johnson and Jeff Van Vonderen (Bethany House Publishers: Minneapolis, MN, 1992, 235 pp)

David Johnson and Jeff Van Vonderen address a serious problem within the church — something they call spiritual abuse. This may be a new term for many people. The authors use the label in an effort to describe a phenomenon which they feel is currently at work within the church.

Spiritual abuse, as they define it, is the misuse of authority by spiritual leaders in an attempt to meet their own needs of importance and power. Instead of leading people into conformity with Christ, spiritual abusers press people into conformity with a religious system. This is done through the use of formulas and doctrines.

The results, say the authors, can be devastating. Victims are usually guilt-ridden and show signs of extreme anxiety, perfectionism, lack of balance and sometimes even paranoia.

The book is divided into three parts: part one describes the spiritually abusive system, part two centres on the leaders who abuse, and part three offers guidelines for post-abuse recovery.

Throughout the book the authors are careful to express their desire for Christians to shed the weight of religious systems and to experience a joyful freedom in Christ. They are well aware of the controversial nature of this topic and therefore aim to bring healing and hope to hurting Christians rather than to cause dissension within the church.

This is a book that has been written carefully in order to help those who have been mistreated within the church. The authors have a great deal to offer us, allowing us to learn from their experiences. While some readers may disagree with their conclusions, many will see this book as a breakthrough. The authors share a liberating message that will hopefully contribute to making all churches safe places for God's children.

Andrew Bronson, BRE '88, is bookstore manager, OBC/OTS.

Study Opportunity Offered in Israel

by Dr. Robert Hiebert

Students now have access to a unique educational experience in Israel for which they may earn credit towards degree programs at either school.

Those who want the richness of an on-site experience may now study at the Institute of Holy Land Studies, situated on Mt. Zion in Jerusalem. For 35 years it has striven to give its students "an enriched understanding of the Christian faith through a firsthand encounter with language, history, and culture associated with Scripture." It features academic programs at both undergraduate and graduate levels. The Institute embraces an evangelical statement of faith.

Classroom instruction and research in libraries are often supplemented by field trips throughout the country.

OBC joined the consortium known as the Associated Schools of the Institute of Holy Land studies this year. OTS has been a member for a few years.

Residence space is available for singles and married couples.

Dr. Hiebert, faculty, Department of Bible and Theology, OBC, is on the Canadian board of the Institute.

The Sporting Life

by Steve Wilson

Sports and recreation at OBC continued to be an integral part of student life during the past academic year as over 200 students participated in varsity and intramural sports.

Although unable to secure sponsors for individual teams or for the program in general, we still managed to participate in the Ontario Christian College Athletics Conference (OCCAC) in four team sports plus badminton. In addition, our men's volleyball team travelled to Chicago for an invitational tournament hosted by Moody Bible Institute, thanks to the support of the Student Council and the players' own resources.

Our ladies' volleyball team split a series with Ryerson Polytechnical Institute and participated in a local league; our men's basketball team took on William Tyndale College (Detroit) and some local high school teams. The hockey team took part in three tournaments in Southern Ontario.

These extra events added interest and variety to our program, but it was the OCCAC Championships towards which everyone worked hard. Both volleyball teams finished as runners-up; the men losing to Eastern Pentecostal, while the ladies lost a nail-biting, five game set (3-2) to their friendly "arch-rivals" from Redeemer College. The men's basketball team, in what proved to be the closest division in the OCCAC, finished as runner-up. Our badminton players finished third as a team. Finally, the hockey team, with the injection of new talent in January, ended up third in the Conference.

Next year we will attempt to revive our ladies' basketball team (lack of opposition in the OCCAC suspended play this year) and to introduce a ladies soccer program (possibly one for men, too).

Many thanks to former and present student volunteers who made this another "successful" year in athletics. Special thanks to the coaches: men's volleyball - Kevin Wood (BTh '91), ladies volleyball - Steve Wilson (BRE '87) and Sharolyn McLeod (BRE '91), men's basketball - Craig Campbell, and men's hockey - Rocky Dundas and Andrew Gordon (BRE '91).

We have been truly blessed with many ministry opportunities and trust that God will continue to be our inspiration and guide.

Steve Wilson is director of Student Activities and Commuter Life, OBC.
